The energetic Swedish Balkan brass band Süperstar Orkestar releases a new mini-album after their latest acclaimed album "Hope" (2020).

That album consisted mostly of new original material. This time the band has ventured on a different project.

The new album contains five traditional trubaci (Balkan brass) tunes which the band has heard with Roma brass bands like Orkestar Cobra, Orkestar Dejan Avdic and other fantastic Roma bands from southern Serbia, where this tradition is strongest.

These are bands that thrive outside of the limelight of the big stages. They continue to develop the genre and have the depth of this rich tradition in their music.

The album was recorded during an intense weekend in Stockholm in the fall of 2021, by Jonas Jersild who also has mixed the album. He is the favourite producer of Süperstar Orkestar and has been working with them on their latest albums.

"Süper Shock!" is released on the fourth of february 2022.
